1874—IN PORTRAITURE—1906.

I.

When all the greyish dawn of youth, and dreams, were merged in the ideal, then came the hour
For passive musings. Back to quiet streams
With line and rod. What potent power
The small, white hand of boyhood's fancy caught
Its first impression! Earnest lessons taught

II.

But afterward the noon time came—with tears.
The shadows lengthened. All the world appeared
A circumscribed event—as other years.
Which come and go. The note of singing bird
Had lost its sweetness, and the work and heat
Fell as a garment to his very feet.

III.

And now 'tis evenside, and rest is sweeter far
Beside the stream we call the stream of life.
If youth and dreams are past, the guiding star
Beckons him on to duties call—its strife!
The lost ideals are found in the sublime
Of manlier thought—upon the shore of Time!

IV.

Look not, my friend, upon the bitter past, of lost endeavor.
Or to the alluring future! Bide the present hour.
And view it with a steadfast purpose, trusting ever—
That great and soulful power—
When childhood, youth, and gentile age, are o'er,
To dwell together—through eternity!

OLD TIMES IN FRANKFORT.

No. IX.

(Crutcher-Tate Melange.)

An amusing episode connected with the days of slavery occurred near Frankfort, prior to the Civil War. Bob Taylor and Dick Tate were charmed with two young ladies, named Vaughan, residing in the county. Determining to give them a serenade, they engaged the services of John N. Crutcher, as vocalist, Ed. Went, as performer on the flute, whilst Walter Lewis was to do the guitar part.

Arrived at the farm home, one bright starlight night, horses were hitched, instruments unseamed, and the group were silently crossing the stiles at the yard fence when the vocalist, Crutcher, noticed some calves lying down in the yard. Quickly grasping the tail of one of these, he gave it a twist. The animal jumped up, bellowing, the others sprang up with a great clatter. The calf ran—Crutcher held on—twelve or fifteen bounds, from under the porches and from behind the house, joined the chase, close behind Crutcher, giving vent to music that seemed appalling. Afraid to let go for fear of the bounds, round and round the yard they went, till, in desperation and nearly exhausted, Crutcher suddenly sprang, panting and weak, on the stiles, face downward.

His companions were indignant, disgusted and proposed to omit the serenade. Crutcher said no, that he would not do to stop now, that he was only executing "an involuntary on the calf-ett" and the home people were yet asleep." Yielding, the party approached the gable end of the farm house where two windows, high up, looked down from either side the stone chimney. Crutcher sang sweetly something about the "starry night" and "love lies dreaming," while flute and guitar solos, and combined pieces were rendered for an hour in great style.

At the conclusion an old negro mammy appeared, invited them to come into the dining room and take something. Said it was always the way when young gentlemen serenaded. Accepting the invitation, they found cherry bounce, cake and other good things in abundance. After eating heartily, Taylor said: "Well, how did the young ladies like the serenade?"

"Oh, bless yer soul, honey," replied the old black mammy, "dey ain't here. Went over to Mars Bedford's dis mornin' early and aint come back yet." At this appalling revelation, silence fell on the company, disgust unspeakable overspread their features—"all that fine music to a lot of niggers, and the next thing they set out." A sort of funeral procession vendor. It was way back to the city, though the "call-ett" performer now and then tried in vain to provoke a smile.

Probably few sensational affairs have lived longer in the memory of the older citizens than the Crutcher-Tate mine murder and cannon episodes. Touching the first incident, Charley Featherston was doing carpenter work in the back yard of the Mansion House, next door to the now McClure establishment. Dick Tate was a clerk in the postoffice and John Crutcher was clerk for the late Wm. M. Todd, whose store was that now occupied by McClure. Seeing Featherston sawing boards on the opposite side and close to the plank fence between the yards, Tate and Crutcher hatched a murder plan.

The day was hot. Featherston had off coat and vest as he sawed away, his back to the fence, his shirt crawled towards his shoulders, exposing the bare skin. Tate loaded a big syringe to the muzzle with ice water. Crutcher filled and primed with powder a horse pistol he had borrowed from the arsenal. Noiselessly approaching where Featherston was at work, they found an opportune crack in the fence, close to the unsuspecting victim, for the point of the syringe. At a signal, "bang" went the pistol, and "chug" went the water against Featherston's bare back. The effect was startling. Dropping his saw, Featherston fell to the ground, crying "murder, I am killed."

Two workmen ran up. The news spread that Featherston had been assassinated—shot from behind the fence. Crowds gathered. Doctors were summoned. Standing over the prostrate man, with scores now pressing around, all wild with excitement. One of the doctors asked him where he was shot. "Clear through the back, don't you see the blood," he groaned. Turning, "don't you see the doctor said gruffly, "don't see any hole—don't see any blood—shirt and back wet with water."

Then the joke dawned on the crowd. They laughed, then whooped and yelled. Featherston got up. He was full of anger. He got a pistol. The planner of the joke was as good as dead if he found him, but he never found out the perpetrators till years after, for Crutcher and Tate never talked until his good humor replaced the resentment.

Gen. Cerro Gordo Williams brought home a dismounted cannon from the Mexican war and placed it in the State House yard. For a long while it lay on the ground in the edge of the high, uncut grass. One day, Tate and Crutcher went up to the arsenal, and while Crutcher engaged the attention of Sam Goins, the keeper, Tate stole a red sack full of powder.

Later, they bought forty or fifty yards of fuse from a quarryman back of the cemetery. One dark night, whilst the town was asleep, and only cats and dogs on parade, Crutcher and Tate stole silently to the State House yard, loaded the old cannon heavily with powder, then rammed and rammed it with sod and rags till their arms ached. Attaching the fuse to the "touch hole," they unrolled it to the gate, lit the end, and then fled to their room and to bed. After waiting a long while and no sound coming to their ears they felt something had gone wrong. Perhaps the fuse had gone out.

They got up, dressed, and started to the square. They had gone only a few steps when a tremendous explosion occurred. Every glass window within a square of the State House was shattered. People ran on the streets. Everybody was alarmed. Was it an earthquake? Had a meteor fallen? Crutcher surmised it might be the first blast of Gabriel's trumpet. He and Tate had joined the crowd and were innocently surmising what the noise could be. The old cannon had kicked over in the tall grass and disappeared, leaving no evidence of where the uproar came from. Next day, many farmers came to town to inquire about the terrible noise. The mystery was unexplained for many years.

Col. Jo N. Crutcher and Bidd Jones were visiting a charming lady, who lived west of the city. Jones was monopolizing the young lady's company more than was pleasing to Crutcher. He was there nearly every night, well dressed, fine looking, talkative. The young lady lived on him. Between Bidd Jones' home and the residence of his charmer, lay a big mud hole spanning the road. Crutcher knew that mud hole. He knew its depth. He also knew the nights when Bidd would pass on the way to love and happiness. One night, after dark, he stretched a grape vine across the mud hole, from trees on either side, and just high enough to reach a man on horseback. Then he hitched his horse in a thicket to one side and lay down behind the fence and waited.

He had not long to wait, for love is no lagard. Bidd came along, riding fast and whistling, for his heart was light. The grape vine worked well, for the rider was swept off and into the mud. As he waded, swearing, towards where Crutcher lay, the latter's heart beat like a trip hammer for fear he would be discovered, but his concealment was secure, and as Bidd returned home in sorry plight, Crutcher spent the evening undisturbed in the agreeable company of the bewitching damsel. His mirth was excessive, however, as he remembered the plight of the hero of the mud hole, and he was forced to explain that it had no unkindly meaning for her own dear self.

Col. John Crutcher, afterward mayor and alcalde of Bellepoint, was also the hero of a watermelon fiasco or ambuscade. The town boys planned a raid by night on Sneed's six-acre watermelon patch, west of town. Crutcher, a country lad then, was employed to notify them when the melons were ripe and to pilot the party. Crutcher confidentially let the Sneeds into the secret. They promised not to tell, but gathered guns and provided powder. On the night fixed, when the melons were ripe, Crutcher led the town raiders by a private path through a hemp field to the melon path. The melons were big and plentiful. They were thumping for the ripe ones. Suddenly "bang" went a gun from a fence corner. Crutcher fell, crying, "Oh, Lordy—oh Lordy!" The others ran in wild alarm. As they neared the fence, "bang" went a gun in their faces. They ran the other way, but whatever way they turned and ran, "bang" went a gun in front. Finally, they broke through the hemp field and in wearied and dejected, frightened and irregular array, reached town. The Sneeds, three or four in number, with half a dozen of their negroes, had surrounded the melon patch with guns loaded, and met and dispersed the enemy in fine form. Crutcher was supposed to be killed or mortally wounded, and remained at home for a week to sustain the belief and cover his artful scheme for fun and frolic.

DANGER IN DELAY.

Kidney Diseases Are Two Dangers for Frankfort People to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, which has cured people right here in Frankfort. Sello E. Collins, of 371 Holmes Street, wife of W. H. Collins, foreman at the Frankfort Chair Co.'s Works, says: "I have the greatest faith in Doan's Kidney Pills for their treatment brought me untold relief. I had backache for years. It was not severe at all times, but when an attack occurred, especially if I over-exercised myself in any way, aggravation of the aching was sure to follow. A positive proof of some disturbed action of the kidneys was trouble with the kidney secretions. I tried various remedies, but found nothing that did me any permanent good. Reading an advertisement in our local papers about Doan's Kidney Pills it occurred to me that they might at least give some relief. Acting on this thought I went to J. W. Gayle's drug store and got a box. Their use proved that what people said about aching in my back was true, and the trouble with the kidney secretions was corrected. I thoroughly believe that any preparation which acts up to the representations made for it like Doan's Kidney Pills can not be too well known."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

A MYSTERY SOLVED.

"How to keep off periodic attacks of biliousness and habitual constipation was a mystery that Dr. King's New Life Pills solved for me," writes John N. Pleasant, of Magnolia, Ind. The only pills that are guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction to everybody or money refunded. Only 25c at all druggists.

FAST IMPROVEMENT.

We can not refrain from again commending the Capital Gas and Electric Light Co. for the great improvement in the street lights which they have so recently put up. In place of being one of the worst lighted cities in the State, this is now one of the best. The lights burn clear and undimmed straight along without flickering, so characteristic of the old lights. We deem this due to the company who are so often cursed instead of praised.

SAD AFFLICTION TO GAL-LANT MAN.

We regret to learn that our genial and gallant friend, Capt. Sam D. Brown, of the Louisville postoffice (former Secretary of the State Railroad Commission), has met with a great misfortune.

It seems that Capt. Brown was twice badly wounded, during the civil war, once in the leg and once in the head. For some time these wounds have given him great trouble, and this week they resulted in his mind giving away and he has been sent to a sanitarium.

Capt. Brown was a brave and gallant soldier, and a gentleman of the old school, genial and true.

His friends here, where he lived while Secretary to the Railroad Commission, deeply sympathize with Capt. Brown and his family, and hope for his speedy restoration.

Why Buy McClure's?

McClure's Magazine is bought and read in homes not because it is a magazine, but because it is the magazine. Why?

FIRST—THE PRICE. It costs but one dollar a year, or less than ten cents a number, for over thirteen hundred two column pages of reading matter. This amounts in actual bulk to twenty or twenty-five books costing anywhere from a dollar to two dollars a volume.

SECOND—QUALITY. The reading matter is written by America's leading writers—the best short story writers, the best writers on timely articles, the best writers of important serials, such as Schurz's "Reminiscences of Baker's" Railroad articles.

THIRD—TIMELINESS. The reading matter in McClure's is not only good; it is not only entertaining, amusing, instructive and inspiring—it is also about the subjects in which you and all Americans are most interested at the time. No subjects in the next twelve months are going to be so important as the question of railroad rates and the question of life insurance. Both of these questions will be discussed by authorities in an impartial, careful, interesting way.

FOURTH—ITS CHARACTER. McClure's Magazine is not edited for children, but at the same time, there is never a line in it that any young girl might not read. Its advertising pages are as clean as its editorial pages.

MY OLD KENTUCKY HOME.

The sun shines bright on my old Kentucky home,
'Tis summer; the darkies are gay;
The corn top's ripe, and the meadow's in bloom,
While the birds make music all the day.
The young folks roll on the little cabin floor,
All merry, all happy and bright,
By'n by hard times come a knocking at the door,
Then, my old Kentucky home, good-night.

Chorus:

Weep no more, my lady, oh, weep no more to-day;
And we'll sing one song for the old Kentucky home,
For the old Kentucky home, far away.

They hunt no more for the 'possum and the coon,
On the meadow, the hill, and the shore;
They sing no more by the glimmer of the moon
On the bench by the old cabin door.
The days go by like a shadow o'er the heart,
With sorrow, where all was delight,
The time has come when the darkies have to part;
Then, my old Kentucky home, good-night.

The head must bow, and the back must bend,
Wherever the darkies may go;
A few more days and the trouble all will end
In the fields where the sugar canes grow—
A few more days for to tote the weary load—
No matter 'twill never be light,
A few more days we'll totter on the road;
Then, my old Kentucky home, good night.

OVERCOATS OF WOLF HIDE WORN BY RANGEMEN OF THE NORTHWEST.

If those big wolf and coyote skin overcoats, such as are now being worn to Kansas City by northwestern stockmen and farmers could talk, many thrilling and interesting yarns would be added to hunting lore, says the Star. In the Dakotas, Nebraska and Wyoming especially, where coats of this kind are a winter's necessity for men out of doors, trapping and killing wolves and coyotes for their skins is quite an industry and is followed with profit by hunters. Many of them are Indians who are skilled in the use of the needle and scissors and realize the full profit on the garment by making it themselves to the customer's order. The best wolf skin coats sell for $150 and none less than $100. The legs of the pelt can not be used and for a large coat ten skins are required. Extreme care must be taken of the coats in summer, however, to keep the moths out of the fur. They are heavier than any sort of an ulster of cloth and remain rainproof even after days of exposure.

E. W. Hart, of Brock, Neb., who was at the Blossom House one night recently, had one of those coats with a story, or rather with twelve stories, for there was one attached to each of the many skins it was made up of.

"I'm not much of a hunter," said Mr. Hart, "and was six years in killing enough wolves to make this coat. It is a home-made affair and a bit rough on the edges, but good enough for a stockman. The skin from which the sleeves are made was obtained with difficulty. This wolf was the largest of the lot, a female, and half starved at the time I captured her. I jumped in among the hounds after she was down to keep them from tearing her throat, but before I could get a firm hold upon her jaws she slipped loose and fastened her teeth in my coat sleeve. I was compelled to let her go, shake her off and let the dogs again catch and kill her. I must have chased, shot at and tried to trap fifty of the beasts before I killed enough to make the coat. They are popular out our way and the greatest garment of their kind, but hard to get."

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY PARTY.

The Junior Auxiliary of Ascension Church will give a George Washington's Birthday Party in the Parish House, on Thursday afternoon, February 22, at half past three o'clock. There will be a fancy table, with pretty patriotic novelties, a magic lantern show, which always delight the children, and games will be played to entertain the little people.

A special feature of this entertainment will be the sale of bath rugs sewed by the members of the Junior Auxiliary. It is earnestly hoped that all ages and sizes will come to the patriotic party.

GIVE LIBERALLY.

It should be the duty of every citizen of this city and county, and even the "stranger within our gates," to contribute as liberally as possible to the fund which the King's Daughter's Hospital Committee are endeavoring to raise money to lift the mortgage debt from the Hospital.

The good heretofore accomplished by this Hospital is incalculable, and every stranger, who needs its good offices while in the city, is given its benefits freely.

Help these good women all you can.

JUGGLING BRIDAL GIFTS.

A bride from the south entertained, a few evenings ago, some friends, reports the New York Globe, who especially admired a beautiful sugar bowl among her wedding presents—"bridal gifts," as she called them, in the southern idiom.

"Whom is that from," asked one who is intimate enough to make such an inquiry. The bride hesitated a moment.

"It's really hard to tell," she said finally. "It's partly from Aunt Caroline and partly from a girl in Colorado and partly from a gentleman in Jack's office."

"You see, Aunt Caroline sent me a dozen spoons, and they were the only spoons out of 11 dozen that weren't marked. My friend in Colorado sent an order on a store in Baltimore for anything I wanted to select, and the gentleman in Jack's office sent a carving set. There were two other carving sets, too.

"Nobody sent a sugar bowl and I wanted one worse than anything else. Aunt Caroline lives in Baltimore, you know, and her spoons were from the same store that I had an order on from Colorado. So I just sent them the spoons and the order and asked them to send me a sugar bowl of the same value. They wrote me that they didn't have any sugar bowls as cheap as that but were sending me four to select from at different prices.

"I wanted this sugar bowl, which was one of the four sent, so I made Jack take the carving set to the store where it was bought and get the money for it, and that made just enough to pay for the sugar bowl. Wasn't that fine?"

And all the women present declared the bride was a genius.

The situation, with reference to the foreign population in China, is in very strained condition and likely to produce trouble at any time. Already there have been riots in different points in the kingdom.

The U. S. authorities are acting with wisdom and discretion in sending troops to convenient points to protect American interests.

URGENT NEED FOR PASSAGE OF ANTI-CIGARETTE BILL.

We would most respectfully urge upon the Legislature the prompt passage of the anti-cigarette bill. This evil habit is rapidly growing and the necessity for the restriction is pressing. Hardly a paper is printed but there are several accounts of the death, or worse, of young men, who had bright prospects in life, but gave way to this abominable practice and became moral and mental wrecks.

MEETING OF BUSINESS MEN'S CLUB.

Three was a large attendance at the Business Men's Club meeting, on Thursday night.

There were a number of subjects brought up and discussed. Among them were the following:

The necessity for a better system of street cleaning.

The establishment of stock yards for the sale of live stock.

The propriety of purchasing a lot for presentation to a furniture company, in consideration of such an institution being permanently located here, in view of the fact that the company now running in the prison are going to confine their business to making chairs.

The propriety of establishing a municipal insurance company.

Finally, the propriety of entertaining the Legislature at the same time with the State Farmers Institute.

These, and some kindred measures, of minor importance, were discussed.

The club is doing good work for the city.

LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY.

For the first time in the history of Kentucky, the Legislature paid tribute to the memory of President Lincoln, on Monday last, which was his birthday.

Chief Justice J. P. Hobson, Prof. H. K. Taylor, of the Louisville Training School, Senator Ben Sewell and Lt. Gov. W. P. Thorne made appropriate addresses before the joint assembly.

There was a large crowd present to hear the addresses.

Both houses of the Legislature adjourned without transacting any business.

The House of Representatives, in which the meeting was held, was beautifully decorated, and a large picture of the martyr President was tastefully draped in black.

Thank God, the day has come when the passions of civil strife have so far subsided as to permit such a scene as that of Monday.

HERE'S CONSISTENCY!

Its funny how consistent (?) some people are. In five legislative districts of Louisville the most glaring and outrageous frauds were perpetrated in order to elect Representatives, and the committee to investigate and sit upon one of these cases (as a sample), say that the outrages committed by the police were such as no self-respecting police board could overlook, no court or grand jury could dare condone, without perpetrating still further outrages upon the people, who had thus been disfranchised. Yet, when these cases are voted upon in the House, these men retain their seats.

Now for the reverse side. Irregularities of a minor nature, such as one of the election officers acting as clerk of the election (while the clerk, who is also charged with drinking, is temporarily away from his position) in Muhlenberg county, comes up, and away goes consistency, and the sitting member is ousted, and the man who was never

SEED TIME

The experienced farmer has learned that some grains require far different soil than others; some crops need different handling than others. He knows that a great deal depends upon right planting at the right time, and that the soil must be kept enriched. No use of complaining in summer about a mistake made in the spring. Decide before the seed is planted.

The best time to remedy wasting conditions in the human body is before the evil is too deep rooted. At the first evidence of loss of flesh

Scott's Emulsion should be taken immediately. There is nothing that will repair wasted tissue more quickly or replace lost flesh more abundantly than Scott's Emulsion. It nourishes and builds up the body when ordinary foods absolutely fail.

We'll send you a sample free.

Thirty Days Was My Life's Limit.

Agony From Inherited Heart Disease.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Cured Me.

One person in every four has a weak heart. Unless promptly treated a weak heart will easily become a diseased heart. A little extra strain from any cause is sufficient to bring on this deadly malady, the most common cause of sudden death. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure will tone up the heart's action, enrich the blood and improve the circulation.

"My trouble began with catarrh and I have always supposed it caused the trouble I have experienced with my heart. I had the usual symptoms of dyspepsia, lost appetite, constipation, palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath and pain around the heart and under left arm. My mother suffered in the same way and I suppose mine was an inherited tendency. At one time I was in agony. I suffered so severely and became so weak that my doctors said I could not live thirty days. At this time I had not slept over two hours a night on account of nervousness. The least exercise, such as walking about, would bring on palpitation and fluttering of the heart so severe that I would have to give up everything and rest. Nerve and Liver Pills cured me of constipation and heart symptoms disappeared under the influence of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. I am in better health than I have been in twelve years and I thank Dr. Miles' Remedies for it. I think they are the grandest remedies on earth and I am constantly recommending them to my friends."—MRS. L. J. CANTRELL, Washburn, Tex.

election is given the seat. One member aptly put it: "We don't often get a chance at those fellows in Muhlenberg county, and now, when we can, let's swipe 'em." Other honorable (?) gentlemen raise holy hands in horror over the awful outrage in Muhlenberg, while they remark about the Louisville cases, "Oh! Yes; There were outrages committed; but not enough to overcome the majority of the sitting member." Notwithstanding the fact that, in one case, the deciding precinct was bodaciously moved and a fake election held, while the legal officers were not present and no legal ballot box was used.

"O tempora! Oh! mores! Why not stand straight and square to every wind that blows, and 'hew to the line, let the chips fall where they may'?"

What was it the woodcock said?

KENTUCKY STATE COLLEGE BOYS HERE.

On Monday morning the battalion of cadets from the Kentucky State College came here on a special train, upon invitation of the Legislature.

There were five companies of infantry, a battery, and the college band, numbering in all about 250 men, together with most of the senior class and the faculty of the college. The soldiers made quite a handsome display as they marched down Broadway to Ann, up Ann to Main, down Main to St. Clair, down St. Clair to Wapping, down Wapping to Washington, in Washington to Broadway, east on Broadway to the Capitol grounds.

Under command of Maj. W. R. Burt, U. S. A., they went through with quite a handsome drill in the Capitol grounds, which was highly complimented by all who witnessed the maneuvers.

At the conclusion of the drill the battalion marched to their special train and deposited their guns, and were then dismissed to witness the doings of the Legislature and see the various sights of the city.

The large majority of the boys were served with lunch from their train.

At 4 p. m. the train returned to Lexington, not, however, without leaving behind quite a bunch of the boys, who had yielded to the charms of Frankfort's pretty girls, and were just a little late. Those left went up on the regular 4:30 L. & N.

The whole affair was well managed and the display a very creditable one for all concerned.

PUBLIC SALE.

INVOLUNTARY SANTA CLAUS.

One day last week little Ben Rogers, son of Mr. Thos. P. Rogers, and Cardwell Chinn, son of Hon. J. Morgan Chinn, were playing about the building being erected on Fourth street by Mr. Robt. Cheate, and climbed through the timbers up into the attic. A chimney had been completed to about the level of the poists and Ben sat down upon top of the wall with his feet dangling in the opening. Presently he lost his balance and slipped into the flue, but caught the top of the wall with his hands. He called to Cardie for help, which was promptly given, but in attempting to pull him up by the hands, Cardie pulled his gloves off and down the chimney Ben went like a stone. He landed safely in a fireplace at the bottom, a very much shaken up and frightened boy, but without injury save a little skin rubbed off in his rapid descent.

RESIGNED—APPOINTED.

Capt. C. W. Merchand, who has been night watchman at the U. S. Customhouse for many years, has resigned his position and will remove with his family to the farm which he recently purchased on the Louisville pike. Capt. Merchand has made a most capable and efficient officer, and retires with the best wishes of a host of warmly attached friends. Mr. Jas. C. Sower has been selected to fill the vacancy caused by Capt. Merchand's resignation. He was a gallant soldier, and is a deserving gentleman. He will make an excellent officer. We congratulate him upon his appointment.

A RARE TREAT.

The scenic equipment and mechanical effects Manager John A. Hillelein has provided for the Imperial Stock Co. this season far exceeds that of any previous year, and for transportation of same a sixty-foot baggage car is required. It should be of interest to patrons of the Capitol Theatre to learn that during the company's forthcoming engagement this entire outfit will be used and practically none of the house scenery, which to many people is in the nature of an eyesore, will be brought into requisition in presenting the numerous plays in the repertoire. The opening play on Monday night will be Out of the Fold, and it is evident that the attendance will be large.

NEW BUILDING.

Mr. J. J. Brislan will soon commence the erection of a handsome two-story and attic brick residence on his lot on Third Avenue, between Shelby and Capital Avenue. This will fill in the open space on that street, and will be a handsome improvement. So it goes right along. The old town is waking up and getting a move on herself.

The demand for houses is not half supplied.

Imperial Stock Co.—Second act "Out of The Fold."

IMPERIAL STOCK CO.

The general interest manifested in the approaching engagement of the Imperial Stock Co. at the Capitol Theatre augurs well for this popular attraction, and unless all indications fail, capacity houses will prove the rule throughout the engagement. An entirely new repertoire of plays will be given, and the engagement will open on Monday night with an elaborate production of "Out of The Fold."

Other plays that will be given during the week are: A Celebrated Case, The Rose of Killarney, The Woman Who Sins, Over the Hills to the Poor House, The Red Cross Nurse, The Moonshiners, etc. The usual Saturday matinee will be played. Ladies' free tickets will be issued for Monday night.

"ISLE OF SPICE."

"Since Aspasia charmed Pericles in ancient Greece, or perhaps, it might be better to say, since Adam loved Eve, women have been studying the problem of how to please men," says Miss Mattie Martz, of the "Isle of Spice" Company, soon to be seen in this city.

"Isn't it surprising then, that in all these thousands of years they haven't solved it better? There are really few girls that seem to realize what a man admires. I think it has been said before, but it is still unneeded, so it may be repeated, that first of all, men want sympathy for themselves and their work. They don't want to talk to a girl whose mind is filled with her gowns and millinery or those of others, so that she has no room for interest in his affairs."

"Of course, to most women, a man's work and ambitions are as difficult to understand as Greek. They hope the men in whom they are interested will succeed in what he wishes to do, but beyond that, they are not capable of thinking or acting for him. A man wants more than this from the girl of whom he makes a friend with matrimony ahead. She must sympathize with him and his ideals, and not only that but be able to talk to him and be understood."

"The simpering, gushing, frivolous girl does not appeal to the average man. She appears too selfish; there seems to be too little concern or thought for others in her nature. There are men who like what may be called the thoroughly serious-minded girl, but the most popular one is the happy medium, who can amuse and owns the feminine foibles that make a woman dear to a man's heart."

"A thing for girls to remember is that man prefers companionship to a pretty face. When he marries, a man inevitably decides on a woman who, were she a man, would be his best friend and closest companion."

At Capitol Theatre in the very near future.

"ISLE OF SPICE."

Miss Leslie Leigh, the prima donna of the "Isle of Spice" Co., occasionally finds a few leisure moments in the midst of her strenuous stage life for serious thought, and at such times devotes herself to epigrammatic output. The following are said to be some of her latest cynical utterances:

"The man who owns ten shares of Standard Oil stock never falls against frosts, neither does the theatregoer who sits with his wife in the front row object to the actress in her hair."

"The average pass friend does not care to own the theatres he haunts. He simply desires the same privileges as the owners."

"Poverty and contagious disease are the only barriers that prevent a man entering the society of today."

"If it was as easy for a man to marry the woman that he wants to, as it is for him to obtain a legal separation from the one he does not mate with, there would be fewer divorcees."

"Society forgives the man who staggers when he rises from the dinner table, but will not tolerate the misguided individual who drinks his champagne from a Burgundy glass."

"A point for those who wish to dine with epineures: Never praise the cook, rather your host's exquisite tastes in matters culinary."

Miss Leigh will be seen here with "The Isle of Spice," which comes to Capitol Theatre in the near future.

are caused by Indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart.

Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

CLIMATIC CURES.

The influence of climatic conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectation in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those that use German Syrup. The latter is the most practical and surest. Corns can't stay where it is used. It can't fail, can't hurt the toe, can't do anything but take off corns. If you have corns now, next week you need have none. The remedy is different from others, better than others, and the cost is but 15 cents.

J. C. JOHNSON CO.

FIRST ANNUAL STATE FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

Be Held at Frankfort, Ky., February 25th and 26th and March 1, '06. Under the Auspices of the State Department of Agriculture, Labor and Statistics—For the Development of Kentucky's Agricultural and Kindred Interests.

OBJECT.

The object of the State Farmers' Institute is to bring the farmers of the State into closer relation with each other and with the Department of Agriculture for their mutual benefit, to interchange ideas, to encourage legislation for the benefit of the farmers and to lift Kentucky to the forefront of agricultural States.

The Institute is to be the central body of farmers in the State, and it is to be made a permanent institution. The local clubs or institutions are to become members of this body, and they will be expected to send delegates to the State meetings to take part in the deliberations, and to present the needs of their respective counties. The State body will work in conjunction with the State Department of Agriculture and will serve to bring the farmers and the Department into close contact with one another to the end that the farmers may be enabled to get direct and substantial benefits from it.

ORGANIZATION.

As soon as the delegates are assembled, it is the purpose to erect a permanent organization and elect officers as follows:

President.
First Vice President.
Second Vice President.
Secretary.
Treasurer.
Each county shall have one vote on the question of organization, but after the organization is effected the Institute may determine for itself the manner of voting on all proposition coming before it.

A Heavy Load to Carry.

Along with dyspepsia comes nervousness and general ill-health. Why? Because a disordered stomach does not permit the food to be properly digested, and its products assimilated by the system. The blood is charged with poisons which come from this disordered digestion, and in turn the nerves are not fed on good, red blood, and we see symptoms of nervousness, sleeplessness and general breakdown. It is not head work, nor over physical exertion that does it, but poor stomach work. With poor, thin blood the body is not protected against the attack of germs of grip, bronchitis and consumption. Fortify the body at once with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—a rare combination of native medicinal roots without a particle of alcohol or dangerous habit-forming drugs.

A little book of extracts, from prominent medical authorities extolling every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will be mailed free to any address on request by postal card or letter. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Many years of active practice convinced Dr. Pierce of the value of many native roots as medicinal agents and he went to great expense, both in time and in money, to perfect his own peculiar processes for rendering them both efficient and safe for tonic, alterative and rebuilding agents.

The enormous popularity of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is due both to its scientific compounding and to the actual medicinal value of its ingredients. The publication of the names of the ingredients on the wrapper of every bottle sold gives full assurance of its non-alcoholic character and removes all objection to the use of an unknown or secret remedy. It is not a patent medicine nor a secret one either. This fact puts it in a class of its own, bearing as it does upon every bottle wrapper The Badge of Honesty, in the full list of its ingredients.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" cures, weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, rapid liver and biliousness, nervous stomach and bowels and all catarrhal affections no matter what parts or organs may be affected with it. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original little liver pills, first put out 40 years ago. They regulate and invigorate, stomach, liver and bowels. Much imitated but never equaled. Sugar-coated and easy to take as candy. One to three a dose.

REPRESENTATION.

While each county will have one vote in the matter of organization, it is urged that every county send as many delegates as will agree to come. It is very important to the agricultural interests of the State that this, the first State Institute, should be a signal success.

PROGRAMME.

While the programme has not yet been completed, some of the most eminent lecturers in the country have been invited to participate and it can confidently be said that it will be one of the most interesting programmes ever carried out in this State. Among those invited to participate are: Dr. Cyril G. Hopkins, of Illinois University; P. G. Holden, of Iowa; Joseph E. Wing, of Ohio; Gifford Pinchot, head of the National Department of Forestry; Prof. J. K. Patterson, of Kentucky State College; Prof. M. A. Sorell, Director of the State Experiment Station; Prof. H. Garman, State Entomologist and other men of national reputation, including a prominent road expert.

Governor Beckham will be invited to deliver the address of welcome for the State and Mayor E. E. Hume will deliver the address of welcome for Frankfort. Programmes will be sent out as soon as completed.

REDUCED RATES.

Application has been made for reduced rates on all railroads in the State. Delegates are requested to take certificates from agents in order that they may get the advantage of reduced rates returning.

ENTERTAINMENT.

The Frankfort Business Men's Club will entertain the delegates at a banquet and other entertainment. Delegates are requested to visit to the New Capitol Site. The Business Men's Club will establish a bureau of information which will look after the comfort of the delegates and guests and will provide badges for all delegates. The Legislature will still be in session and they will be invited to attend the Institute in a body. Every county should feel that the agricultural interests of the State are on trial and should see to it that determined, interested men are sent as delegates. Respectfully,
HUBERT VEELEND, Commissioner.

BUSINESS CHANGES.

Mr. Thos. E. Kenney has purchased the interest of his brother, Mr. O. C. Kenney, in the big saw-mill and lumber business, and will continue it.

Mr. O. C. Kenney has purchased the fine Robt. A. Wilson farm, of 210 acres, at Woodlake, consideration $21,000 cash.

Mr. Jas. W. Hughes, Jr., has purchased from O. C. Kenney the Wilson place, at Woodlake. Consideration $21,500.

Mr. Huston Wood has rented the fine Silver Lake farm of Mr. Stephen Black, two miles from the city, on the Georgetown pike, and will move in March 1st. He also has the fine fishing lake as part of his rental.

Mr. Stephen Black and wife will shortly move to this city to reside, having rented their farm to Mr. Huston Wood.

READ IT.

In another place will be found a notice to the policy holders of the New York Life Insurance Co. and the Mutual Life Insurance Co., asking them to attend a meeting. Read it.

KENTUCKY'S INTEREST IN IMMIGRATION.

Senator Jas. B. McCreary's bill now pending in the Senate of the United States, to regulate immigration, has a special interest for Kentucky, not only because it is the solution offered by one of the State's Senators to a question of great national importance, but because Kentucky has been shown a keen interest in this subject. The measure proposed by Senator McCreary increases the restriction upon undesirable immigrants and increases the facilities by which States with representatives at immigrant ports may secure from the great mass of immigrants that are pouring into the country, whatever they may need of the better class of agricultural and industrial laborers, and protect themselves measurably against immigrants of an undesirable kind.

The first of these things Senator McCreary proposes to do by increasing the tax on immigrants from two to five dollars, by adding to the list of excluded immigrants, and by increasing the efficiency of the inspection service for enforcing this exclusion. The other end is to be promoted by authorizing and directing the Commissioner General of Immigration to maintain in connection with each immigrant station a bureau which shall furnish information as to the resources, products, manufactures, climate, soil, price of land, etc., of each State and Territory, the route of travel thereto and the cost of transportation, the opportunities for employment in each State and Territory in the various skilled and unskilled occupations, together with the rates of wages and the cost of living. To the same end, and this is of special interest in view of pending legislation in Kentucky—Senator McCreary's bill provides that each State desires to maintain an agent at any immigrant station of the United States, the Commissioner General of Immigration shall provide such agent with suitable quarters, permit him to have access to all immigrants and give him aid so far as possible.

It is important that the United States should adopt stringent measures for the exclusion of undesirable immigrants, in view of the accumulated evidence showing that an organized effort is being made to unload a vastly greater number than usual of such immigrants on this country. It is likewise especially important to Kentucky that this State should not passively take its chances, without effort to protect or help itself, when other States are providing official representatives at immigrant ports. If Kentucky does nothing, it will not only allow all desirable immigrants, such as are now coming to our farms and in our factories, to be diverted to States that have the enterprise to go after them, but it will be likely to receive more than its share of the undesirable class, since there is some reason to apprehend an organized effort to send these undesirable people to the South, while the West and Northwest get the pick of the thrifty Germans, Scandinavians and Irish.

This immigration question is an important one and a practical one. A step toward putting Kentucky in position to derive the maximum benefit from the provisions of Senator McCreary's bill is proposed in the bill that has been introduced at Frankfort by Senator Newman. This bill provides for a commission which shall among other things, look after the immigration interests of the State, and does not go as far as some would like to have it go, but it goes in the right direction and would put Kentucky in a better position, both for securing their influx of thrifty population, for which there is such a demand in many parts of the State, and for imposing some check upon the kind of immigration that the State does not want. It provides also for supplying needed information to investors and home-seekers from other States.

The interest manifested in the subject of immigration at the State Development Convention, held in Louisville in October, 1905, leaves no doubt of the importance attached to this matter in Kentucky. The Convention referred to was composed of 588 delegates from outside the city of Louisville, met to consider matters of concern to the State. This Convention asked of the Legislature the enactment of some measure establishing a State Bureau of Immigration and Information. The bill introduced by Senator Newman would in effect supply such a Bureau in an economical and practical way.

REDEMPTION OF STAMPED PAPER.

Office of Third Assistant Postmaster General.
Washington, D. C., Dec. 1, 1905.
It is frequently necessary to reject quantities of stamped paper which have been improperly redeemed by postmasters from the public. This adds greatly to the work at the office, and results in loss to the postmasters. Attention is directed to the following rules on the subject of redemptions, which postmasters are requested to carefully read and see that all employees of their offices are fully advised:

Government stamped envelopes and postal cards with printed addresses for reply, and envelopes bearing printed return cards, must not be redeemed unless presented by original purchasers. (An original purchaser is one who purchased the envelopes or cards at a post office, and envelopes and cards which bear no printing to indicate the original purchaser are redeemable from any responsible person.) Spotted envelopes must not be redeemed if mutilated more than necessary to remove contents; postcards must not be redeemed if mutilated at any point.

Postage stamps must not be redeemed from the public, whether attached to envelopes or not.

EDWIN C. MADDOEN,
Third Assistant Postmaster General.

(For the Roundabout.) LETTER FROM NOWLIN'S RANCH, OKLA.

The beautiful weather continues in the Osage, just as if the ground hog had not seen his shadow.

Mr. J. H. Bond is in Texas this week buying cattle. Mr. Bond is fixing himself for a fence ride this summer.

Mr. Henry Feltor, of the Ranch, spent last week with his sister, at Pawhuska.

The farmers here are very busy burning stub and plowing the land for corn.

The Indians are very happy over the thought of having their land allotted them in the near future.

Mr. Charley Luther, the master feedman of the Osage Cattle Company's cattle, was called, very suddenly, to Bartlesville, by the death of his brother.

Mr. James Moody, who has been sick for several weeks, is able to be out again. Mr. Moody is an extensive cattle owner. He is feeding over eleven thousand head this winter.

Rev. C. W. Barnett, assisted by the Cherokee Indian Missionary, Rev. Mr. Hamilton, has been holding protracted meeting at the Indian camp, near Pawhuska, and have met with much success. They will, in the near future, organize a church, known as the Osage Baptist Church.

The death of Mr. Sam Smith, which occurred in Fairfax, was received with much surprise by that big-hearted, wholesome class of men, known as the cow boys, he being a member of that body. Sam was born in Knox county, Kentucky, May 21, 1869. The remains were laid to rest in the Fairfax cemetery.

The boys from the French and Simon and John, two Indians, were out hunting along the Arkansas river the other day, when they were lost and had to wander around for quite a while before finding where they were.

Mr. N. E. Nolin made a business trip to Perry and Ponca City some days ago. J. E. C.
